

My Research Focus

My research focus is on studies of infectious/emerging conditions due bacterial pathogens, with particular reference to animal. I have contributed to knowledge in the area of diagnostic Microbiology generally and gastrointestinal bacteria (Enterobacteria) in particular. I employed phenotypic, chemotaxonomic, serological, epidemiological, genetic, molecular and biotechnological skills in achieving the research goal.